31st Annual DSA Safety Seminar and Exposition Scheduled for March 17-19, 2008

The toll of workplace injuries and fatalities to American businesses and industries is high. In 2007 approximately 5,700 workers lost their lives and there were 3.7 million disabling injuries.

The 31st Annual Delmarva Safety Seminar and Exhibition is scheduled for March 17-19, 2008 in Ocean City, MD. The safety seminar is designed for managers, supervisors, safety professionals, and other operating personnel. Representatives from OSHA, MOSH and Delaware Consultative Services plus over 25 safety equipment vendors will be exhibiting.

The 31st Annual DSA Show will address making workplaces safer and increasing understanding of safety practices and regulations. Workshop topics at this year’s show includes falls, motor vehicle incidents, crane safety, managing risks, cultural barriers to safety, preparing for an OSHA inspection, back injury prevention, first aid certification, improving safety training, hazardous materials, fire extinguisher training and much more. You may visit www.delmarvasafety.com and click on News for the complete program brochure and registration information.

Those interested in attending may call or fax registration to DSA. For more information call the DSA office at (302)856-7303.
